

IndiePulse Holiday Instrument Donation Drive Starts November 1st 2017

We are looking for your support and possible sponsorship in our Holiday Instrument Donation Drive. Our program has already created a great amount of interest, we are working with local musicians who are donating their time to provide free lessons to instrument recipients and we are planning our media press releases that will acknowledge supporting services and products of our sponsors. The following are the levels of involvement:

1. Partner: A "Partner" will get regular mention in articles, video and radio spots, on the day of distribution, Partners will have an opportunity to have a banner or table at event to reach the participating public. Partner's logo and info will appear on the website for event, on all printed and digital materials and 1 year of advertising on our website, as well as sponsorship mention in our videos.

Partner Financial involvement is 400.00

2. Sponsor: A "Sponsor" will get regular mention in articles, video and radio spots, on the day of distribution, Partners will have an opportunity to have a banner or table at event to reach the participating public. Partner's logo and info will appear on the website for event, on all printed and digital materials and 6 months of advertising on our website, as well as sponsorship mention in our videos.

3. Education Facilitator: this is specifically for artists and musicians offering lessons to recipients at no cost, they will get mention in articles, video and radio spots, on the day of distribution, they will have an opportunity to have a banner or table at event to reach the participating public.

** Education Facilitators are not obligated to provide financial support to project, but will be asked to provide at least a total of 10 hours of tutorial time

About IndiePulse and our Charitable Program

Since it began publishing 9 years ago, IndiePulse Music Magazine looks to the next generation of Musicians as advocates of positive change. Every Year we at IndiePulse look to collect used musical instruments of all kinds, Guitars, Drums, Amps, stringed and woodwinds to repair and give said instruments to children and young adults under 20 that want to learn music or realize their dreams.

Now, more than before, children have fewer opportunities to get connected to their passion for music due to educational budget cuts, financial hardship and more. With our “HeartBeat 4 Kids” Music Program, we have given in the past few years many instruments to youths that would not otherwise get the chance to learn and enjoy their natural talents.

IndiePulse Music Magazine has connected with Instrument Repair people, whom have volunteered their time to assist us with this project, and we have also received help from Instrument manufactures, but we need the help of the music community. We ask the musical public as well as musicians around the world to consider donating one or more used musical instruments to us for rejuvenation.

The HeartBeat 4 Kids Program starts November 1st, 2017 and runs through February 1st 2018, Instruments will be received, repaired and distributed through our program and Schools that are participating with us.

This year we are very proud to announce we have partnered with Music Motive in San Luis Obispo as our Educational Facility Point; Music Motive will be our location for instrument distribution and will be actively involved with project facilitation.

Thank you for your consideration and I look forward to you joining us in providing hope to children with a dream.
